Comments	<input type="text" value="A speculative punt at obtaining permission for a major new development, outside and to the North of Cropredy, a Category A village which should be subject only to small scale or infll development. Submitted by an organised group of chancers who, if successful, will be long gone and enjoying the proceeds of the misery they propose to inflict upon local residents, before so much as a space touches the earth. Obsidian, the volcanic glass, when used ornamentally is known to present a different appearance depending upon how it is cut; how appropriate a name then for this group of opportunists who have already shown themselves quite willing to deliberately misrepresent the views of the GP surgery in marketing material delivered to local residents. Quite why anyone should believe anything they say is not apparent, as nor is any logical rationale therefore for lining their pockets at the cost of open countryside and local residents' wellbeing. Please see through this cynical application, and reject."/>
