Comments	<input type="text" value="As a recent resident to the Bloxham Vale estate very close to the entrance of this additional site who was not notified formally of the application either by the applicant or made aware of ownership by the house builder at time of purchase I highly object to these additional houses. The access road is right in the corner of my property and it is already a tight road to get in and out of which is not designed for an additional site. It would not be inkeeping with the current aesthetic and will have a further impact on the natural environment. It will also subject everyone who has currently put up with years of building works to further disruption. There has been plenty of applications for larger residential sites close by which are much better equipped to support the additional housing. The main access road into the estate is already very tight and many residents park on the road blocking access which would be further impinged. There would be distructive noise for both residents and local wildlife."/>
