Comments	<input type="text" value="This proposed development extends beyond the boundary of the Local Plan and significantly decreases the size of the rural farmland lying between Banbury town and Hanwell village. Hanwell is a small historic village with the majority of the village within a Conservation Area. Within the village are old houses, cottages, listed buildings such as the 13th century church and Hanwell Castle; and medieval fish ponds. The proposed development is described in the Ecological document as an 'Urban Edge' site. The encroachment of this urban development towards the periphery of Hanwell will alter and detract from the character of this village, with little rural space left preventing Hanwell becoming a suburb of Banbury."/>
