I think it seems a shame to lose one of the last areas of green space between the city and Kidlington. There is already the huge Oxford North development currently being built plus housing popping up beyond Cutteslowe Park along the east of the Banbury Road. There are plans I believe to develop the North Oxford golf course and of course Barton Park is a colossal housing development.

In time it to me that Oxford, Kidlington and Woodstock will merge into one conurbation. I would have thought that we should be slowing down some of these projects. Nobody wants another HS2 fiasco surely. We haven't really taken on board what the pandemic has done for the way we live, work and raise families etc and our dependence on e-communication, e-commerce, e-everything in effect is a huge challenge for us all.
