Comments	I am a frequent visitor to Hanwell which is one of the last unspoilt award winning authentic Villages in the Cherwell Valley which has drawn praise for the Planners in the past for sticking adamantly to their conservation status of this beautiful community. The quality of the architecture has developed slowly with most of the houses being unique and of different storey heights which flow along its main street with random roofs most of which are thatched. The proposed new development of 170 houses will have none of those features, especially the site contouring in order to cram the density onto the site and all it will achieve is to diminish the beauty, uniqueness and balance of Hanwell should this proposed development be allowed to proceed.
