Dear Ms Whitehead,

What gives an American Company the idea that they can come to a small English village and build such a monstrosity as Great Weeg. It will completely destroy the village - not to mention the surrounding areas, traffic, and the amount of people they say will frequent the place. The traffic is already heavy and noisy, the village is used as a rat run.

Apart from all my previous comments a lot of the golf club members have already started looking for an alternative 18 hole golf course - some already gone.

Why, when the area has other such facilities would planning permission be granted?

This monstrosity will ruin Chesterton not only with traffic, hundreds of people, but with the style of the structures complement the historical buildings that are Chesterton.

We love our village and I should hate to know that planning permission would be granted - 2,000 visitors a day - no way.

Planning permission should not be granted. It would destroy the lives of villagers and wild life.

Yours sincerely
