I object to the plans lined out as the airfield should stay as a grass airfield on it with only the buildings staying that originally were there, the building of a huge hotel is also not needed as Bicester already has hotels and also a few B&B places that will lose customers if this goes ahead, surely we should be supporting local small business that was here long before BH turned up especially after COVID-19. I think a lot of the plans they have are detrimental to the town the road along Skimmingdish will be overloaded with traffic which is not good considering we have two care homes at each end what happens if an ambulance is needed and can't get past traffic. Yes they have done the buildings up and made a good job of it but they have also lost a valuable contribution to future pilots and youngsters wanting to fly, the comps that were held onsite brought revenue to town as did customers buying gliding experiences from them by forcing out the Gliding club in an underhanded manner. Another thing that should have had preference over BH given that it was here for 64 years and should have had a Heritage state of its own.
