| Comments | <input type="text" value="It's hugely disappointing, but despite the best efforts of Rachel and a small group of villagers to make our shop a viable business, it just isn't getting sufficient footfall through the door to enable it to be a going concern. Amier's illness and subsequent inability to play any part in running the business has put immense pressure on Rachel and the family and the opening of a new Co-op in Bletchingdon has been the final nail in the coffin. I therefore support their desire to change the shop into a family home so that they can move on with their lives."/> |
