And also, 'due process'. Mr.Neville - this falls to you. The site in question is clearly extremely dangerous in terms of vehicle entrance, access and pedestrian useage. If looking at it from the perspective of any reasonable, objective and commonsensical person (and in your case professional) it would seem that coming around that blind corner into the entrance of a multi-property development such as this cannot be a 'good idea'. Can it Mr. Neville? Every day at sun up and sun down it is near impossible to see down/up and the supposed protective posts at the left as you come out the village is where this tiny proposed pavement will go? I think that you have visited the site again recently and fully understand the danger. Note: There is still no actual notice of this recent application being publicly displayed - as you know Mr. Neville. The Parish Council (unelected) apparently green lighting this on the CDC website is an interesting twist to process (even if we knew about this new surreptitious application) . Was this application " yours=""/>
