Comments	<input a="" about="" guidelines,="" is="" just="" last="" like="" multi-generational"="" needs."="" planning="" small="" that="" the="" thing="" type="text" value="I strongly object to the proposed planning of this dwelling. The footprint of the proposed building is MUCH larger than the original plan. It is such precious countryside that we will be losing. There is a huge risk that the area is turning into an urban sprawl. Having read Andrew Ward's (Buddleia Cottage) comments, I 100% agree with every word he states. If ever there was an inappropriate development proposed then this is surely it. An original planning permission to sympathetically turn an old barn (which has stood for centuries) into what can best be described as an oversized flat pack timber eyesore, purely through the clever use of expensive presentations and " village="" wigginton=""/>
