Clearly we were aware of occasional use of an informal track, but the noise was tolerable and only affected a few weekends each year. That has all changed in the last few years, it becoming very evident that the track has undergoing extensive engineering works and the number and scale of events has significantly ramped up. About three years ago I was talking to some ramblers passing our house...what a lovely village they said. " was="" what="" when="" why="" wind="" with="" you=""/>
