Comments	<input type="text" value="Firstly, I am disappointed to have found the planning letter hiding round the corner from where the proposed house is to be erected and not near to where the dwelling is proposed (ie outside no 13)! This row of houses all have very large gardens which are not overlooked and that has always been a selling point. We bought our house for this reason and to then allow one of the owners to build in their garden, I believe would be of great detriment to all the other owners. This would negatively impact those around them when sitting in their back gardens (and for those nearer sitting in their houses) and potentially to our house prices! I already think that the alterations to the existing house are not in keeping with the rest of the road and makes the house look out of place. Also, allowing access to this new house out onto the oxford road opposite to where the Bannatynnes traffic exits is surely dangerous."/>
