Comments	<input type="text" value="On Thursday I read on the front page of the Banbury Guardian that Cherwell District Council 'commits to becoming carbon neutral by 2030'. This article then goes on to explain the various ways that CDC intend to achieve this. This admirable aim cannot possibly sit comfortably alongside granting planning permission for a fuel depot in the centre of an area the CDC itself has declared environmentally special and worthy of protection. In addition to the many valid reasons already made by the submissions to this portal I urge CDC to refuse this application. Frankly I cannot see how they could possibly grant it, given their present commitments to both protecting the environment and becoming carbon neutral. Peter Joyner."/>
