Comments	<input type="text" value="I would like to know your reasoning behind the decision to allow a large commercial enterprise to be built in a largely agricultural area, where small Cotswold villages attract a number of tourists each year. Tourism which is still evident even under these straightened circumstances (i.e the virus situation). The area chosen is at odds with your own local plan and will set a precedent for further business expansion. The chosen place for this business is slap-bang next to a working farm. Do you really think the farm can sustain a 24/7 operation with accompanying light pollution, which I imagine will light up the night sky for some distance. We can see the glow from Banbury lights over our village already. Also apparently the peak period is 5am. The chosen site is above an aquifer risking contamination and possible damage to water courses not to mention wildlife if there is any left. There will also be safety concerns , possible accidents with tankers as there is already an accident black spot on the A422. There will also be an enormous increase in vehicle numbers with no realistic plan for any public transport. There must surely be a brownfill site somewhere that would be entirely suitable?."/>
