Comments	As with the previous planning application for this site I object to the development for the following reasons Access to the site is dangerous via the Leys which is a small lane with no footpath and turning or passing points. Vehicles meeting have no option other than reverse into blind areas due to the curvature of the lane and its junctions at Tanners lane and the waterworks roadway. Heavy vehicles have great difficulty negotiating within the Leys and construction traffic would greatly increase the safety to pedestrians and vehicles alike. Pedestrians currently have to climb a bank in the absence of a footpath to allow passing vehicles. this is a well used lane by walkers to rights of ways and byways, The need for the removal of a great many trees for this development is so contrary to current green policies demanding new planting defies al logic as the land is not scrubland but a neglected back garden of the applicant. Should this become accepted criteria it may become more widely practised. The proximity to the conservation area makes a mockery of conservation in addition to its liability to flooding. Access to the site is also via the waterworks roadway ownership is of some dispute and loss of rights of way during construction would be unacceptable.
