Comments	<input type="text" value="The size of the proposed barn is disproportionate to the size of the plot to be planted. Others in the neighbourhood have had their applications refused when applying to build similar storage/barns on agricultural land. The access is treacherous, from both directions, whether for delivery of construction materials or for regular use of the site. Cars, buses and horse riders regularly use this road. The applicants have shown their disdain for wildlife and the conservation area in general by their brutal and unnecessary clearing of mature hedgerows and trees in nesting season. I do not recall seeing an application for planning permission to remove trees, etc., from the site. Any effluent from their activities will run off directly into the River Sib."/>
