Comments	I write to object to the erection of an agriculture barn on this plot of land. At this stage of the business development it is too early to know what will be required based on apple tree production, vine production and the spring water business. I would suggest that soil reports to support the vineyard being planted and the analysis to show the spring water is suitable for bottling and consumption are uploaded so that all details are available to view prior to final decision making. Due to the tight entrance to the area it would seem that an agriculture barn would be better suited in a plot outside of the conservation area where vehicle access will be easier to navigate and the business better supported if and when production takes off in five plus years as suggested in the application. Secondly, this is a beautiful part of the sib valley which is heavily used by walkers, riders and a lot of traffic. It is very sad to see that the hedge and old established trees have been removed with little consideration to the area and its position within the conservation area, and shows complete lack of empathy for the area and those who enjoy it.
