Not living anywhere near Hornton nor any of the other affected nearby villages, she has no idea about the noise the track creates and the fact that the wind is only one factor, and that cloud cover and humidity can have a far more significant effect. The screening she refers to can only be the 300mm high whips which are suggested will be planted: I wonder how long she believes it will be before these form anything like a sound barrier. Probably about the same length of time as arrival of the electric MX bikes she suggests are coming. Most MX riders have only recently invested in the expensive four-stroke bikes that are responsible for the greater noise at a distance, so one cannot anticipate they will be trading them in in a hurry. Also, contrary to what the Stow-on-the-Wold correspondent states, no one has said they " well-versed="" what="" whatever="" wildlife)="" with=""/>
