Comments	At a time when: 1 the world is challenged by climate change, every bit of green space is most precious and must be protected from development 2 the country is challenged by self-made problems in the supply chain, every household is concerned with food supply and this space has high quality soil as a result of being used for allotments for decades and could be used to help the town be more sufficient and healthier 3 the town centre is emptying of shops and stores building on any green space rather than brown space is irresponsible 4 the town is struggling to line up with its status as ecotown and garden city, the idea of reducing green area for a commercial unit in such a location is nonsensical 5 the country has one of the highest obesity countsin the world, enabling a high fat high sugar food retailer to move into this space increases the local health risk 6 the road systems around bicester are struggling with the current load, positioning this outlet here can be expected to make the situation worse. There doesn't appear to be a local development strategy informed by any of the above. This proposal is the latest in a string of proposals which take bicester in the wrong direction on all the above points.
