Comments	<input type="text" value="The proposed development will make life unbearable for those communities living within the reach of such disruption. Hardwick is one of them. Traffic around J 10 towards the A43 and into the B4100 is already unfit for purpose as is. Adding the scale of an industrial park as is suggested will only further disrupt local life, making it unviable to live within the catchment area of the industrial park. This includes and is not limited to light, sound and air pollution at a time where we are all looking towards minimising the impact that large scale business has on climate and local communities. It is impossible to see who has to benefit from such a development other than those directly involved in the development to the detriment of everyone else. Allowing such a development will attract other such businesses which the area is plentiful already. This will compound the issue and materially change forever the landscape of the area with all that comes with it. Wildlife, nature, communities and their parishes together children and local business will all suffer irreparable damage. Allowing such a development represents the desire to transform the lives of too many. Whilst i am not an expert, i am sure that other areas such as the impact on carbon production and emissions will transform this part of heritage England into a landmark for exploitation"/>
