Comments	<input type="text" value="I strongly feel that a potentially contentious issue like this should be very publicly aired and debated before any decision is taken. It should be made quite clear to local residents, particularly those whose everyday sightlines would be altered by the construction, how they would benefit from the initiative. (What, for example, would be lost if the plan were not to go ahead?) It may well be that 5G is essential for the future, but those living in close proximity to the mast site right now will have many reservations about its connotations and should not be told it is in effect a fait accompli, while the very speed with which the project is being pushed through will cause disquiet unless its necessity is made transparently clear."/>
