Comments	<input "="" type="text" value="Without really knowing the medium- to long-term effects of any mast installation on humans or nature, let alone 5G provision, this proposal appears to be far too near the village and its residents, in a location that doesn't really serve anyone else beyond Kirtlington. It would be much better located in a more remote setting, away from housing and clusters of rich biodiversity, to allow for on-going monitoring of potential health-hazards on all living things, yet equidistant between several similar-sized communities for more people to take advantage of what is potentially being offered. In addition, I wonder who is set to gain financially from this proposal, to which is usually what any inconsiderate planning boils down?!"/>
