Comments	I am an avid walker and tend to walk from Bicester to Banbury on a regular basis and use the footpaths linked throughout the Bucknell area. Unfortunately this recent development will mean my mental health will begin to spiral as I already am saddened by how little is left for all the wildlife as there is less and less space for them. Even though these developers may suggest that they'll create 'green spaces' what they really mean is a large field and keep a few trees in the vicinity. I am saddened by how little thought is taken in regards to the developments, Slough is a perfect example of over-building without much consideration toward the community. If you build this site there will be more cars, more people and not enough space to facilitate the growth. Kingsmere is packed up and the amount of traffic generated is appalling it is also important to note that Launton is being built on too which just means even less green spaces. Think of all these teenagers growing up and their peak of their interests now is, McDonalds and perhaps a trip to Bicester Village. I am objecting to this development because it is blatant ecocide and am just ashamed by the fact that this will just be skimmed-read, partial reply, continue building. I demand more is done to make people aware of what they are actually losing by gaining property. These are not homes, just property and it truly is absurd that Kingsmere was a moment to see how well developers would tackle building on a town already, unfortunately nothing good came from this site. Just more, people, more cars and more waste. I walk to Brackley and have found some areas that I use to walk through now shut due to HS2 and also a new housing development. I might be one voice and perhaps the only person who walks these distances, but I love these footpaths and always believed they would be there to enable escapism. Yet, most people of my age tend to gaze and tellies or phones and drive to their 'local shops'. My point being, is it isn't that people don't care they just do not know that the place they call home is not their bricks and mortar but the land that surrounds them. I would warmly invite any person who wants to walk with me to see with my eyes why I am so passionately opposed to these developments. To clarify I am not opposed to new homes being built, I just don't like to see the land and people being exploited to believe that this will benefit the community, peoples mental health or the environment.
