Comments	<input type="text" value="We have always had the understanding that when Wroxton college took on buying the North Arms away from the villagers it was in the understanding that they would maintain it as a pub. The villagers need a pub as a central place to meet and to keep the community together. The North Arms remains a viable option to remain as a pub as Wroxton has many visitors to the village. Allowing the pub to become a residential building will remove a much needed community meeting place. It is for Cherwell council to ensure that the villagers have a pub in the village so that the community can continue to socialise and grow. If it does not return to a pub it could be the demise of the village."/>
