

If you are interested in registering your disapproval, here are a few suggestions:

WASP. (Windrush Against Sewage Pollution) has been very active in trying to save the once beautiful Windrush River.

OFWAT. Complaining to the regulator is something that Thames Water actively dislikes.

Contacting Thames Water directly. The new CEO is Sarah Bentley (sarah.bentley@thameswater.co.uk)

OMERS. This Canadian pension fund is now the majority shareholder in Thames Water. They have ESG guidelines which TW is likely to be violating.

Victoria Prentis MP was not a supporter of the 130 cross party MPs supporting Philip Dunne MP's Private Member's Bill which addressed the sewage pollution issue before it was guillotined.

The Water Companies were privatised in 1989 with zero debt. They have paid out 57bn pounds in dividends since 1991, largely funded by 48bn pounds in new debt. Thames Water is one of the biggest offenders, taking on 11.7bn pounds in new debt over the period and paying enormous executive packages. It is time that this polluting gravy train was derailed by proper regulatory oversight.

Yours sincerely, Mark Burges
Watson (Wroxton Mill)

Photo taken of Shutford Stream in our garden before all the naturally occurring Starwort weed was killed off by sewage pollution.