Comments	I feel I have to object to this application for the following reasons. I was verbally reassured by the applicant that her plans to convert the piggery would not involve any increase in either the height, the footprint or the materials and based on this I choose not to make an objection to the original application. It would now appear there is 'mission creep'. The planned extension increases the piggery by some 30% If this extension is allowed to go ahead along my boundary it will result in my 'loss of visual amenities'. As mentioned in the decision for the original application the development impacts No 1 Home Farm Court - loss of outlook - and this will further add to it. Additionally the applicant states that there are no trees within falling distance of the extension. I have several mature trees easily within 'falling distance' as does the applicant. The land in question was formerly classified as agricultural land. Permission was granted in 1998 (98/01693/F) for change of use to orchard/vegetable garden with no buildings etc
