Comments	<input type="text" value="I strongly object to any unnecessary application to build yet more warehouses on green belt productive farmland in a rural setting. Not only is the farmland lost and the world is already struggling to feed itself. The loss of hedgerows, trees and animal sets and lairs will be devastating to the local wildlife and biodiversity. Surely more emphasis should be on using brownfield sites. There soon wont be any countryside or villages with their uniqueness left."/>
