Comments	The proposed site is not allocated for development or employment use in the Cherwell Local PlanThis site is in open countryside and is not suitable for this type of mass industrial developmentThe loss of more natural habits for animals and pollinators (note: it's very as very close to Stoke Wood and Stoke BushesThe harm to the landscape and the character of the area, would be profound and the approval of this application could and probably would set a precedent for future development and urbanise this relatively unspoilt area of OxfordshireThe local unemployment rates as a % of the population show that the rate of unemployment in Cherwell is both lower than the average for Oxfordshire and lower than the national average. There is no burning platform driving the need to create low skilled employment opportunities
