Comments	The sheer number of extra houses being foisted on Woodstock and the surrounding villages is ridiculous. Strain on infrastructure and local services is already close to breaking point, and to throw 500 new houses onto such a small area will cause untold stress, both to local wildlife and to the people who live in this area. That any independent planning authority can permit such overcrowding is beyond belief, and I wish to object in the strongest possible terms at this waving through regardless of anything Blenheim or Oxford University demand.
