Comments	<input type="text" value="There is too much mass development in the area which is focused on maximising building companies profit rather than providing good, sustainable, attractive and appropriate housing for locals. This is a charming rural area and also has limited infrastructure. All these extra dwellings will put too much pressure on the village in terms of infrastructure, services (water & waste specifically) and traffic. If these were existing residents wanting to downsize and build one-off, individual houses over time on that might be one thing but this mass building of several houses at once, in such a small village has clearly not been thought through"/>
