Comments	The reason why housing is so expensive in Britain is because we don't build enough of it, principally because it is so difficult to get planning permission. This is a big driver of the cost of living crisis and puts a drag on the economy. Consider the data in today's FT, showing that English-speaking countries build fewer houses than other developed countries, and - surprise, surprise - have seen housing become much more expensive in the past 20-30 years: https://www.ft.com/content/dca3f034-bfe8-4f21-bcdc-2b274053f0b5 I would much prefer to see more dense development near public transport, but given the dire state of things, this is better than nothing. Given the seriousness of the housing crisis, proposals such as this should have to meet a high threshold before they are thrown out.
