Comments	<input type="text" value="I am appalled by this proposal. Any new development should be on brown field sites. This over-crowded island needs its precious remaining areas of countryside for wildlife, crops and, most importantly, for the real (not delusory as in the pursuit of material possessions) well-being of the country's population. I have relatives who live in the area and thus I feel a personal concern. That this proposal should ever have been put forward for consideration is a depressing comment on some people's greed, short-sightedness and lack of concern for present quality of life and the future survival of this planet."/>
