Comments	Having moved to the area 2 years ago very close to Hanwell on the Taylor Wimpey estate, we quickly discovered the treasure of Hanwell - previously unknown to us. The journey to and from the village for us is short by foot, but it is one which absolutely captivated us from the first time we ventured there. We and the surrounding residents are extremely fortunate to have this area of stunning greenery so close to us, and consider it an absolute privilege to be able to enjoy this as part of nearest natural leisure location. However it is at risk of being spoiled for good. It enriches Banbury immensely, and contributes significantly to the beauty of this area of the town. The fields are also the last areas of greenery separating old Hanwell from Banbury town. There has already been enough development of the land on the fringes of Hanwell over the years, which has yielded these enormous new housing estates - one of which I am a resident of. Enough is enough. We risk destroying forever the surroundings of Hanwell, the last natural beauty of this stunning ancient English village. It is important to preserve this area - it shouldn't be allowed to be eroded away so easily.
