Comments	My main objection to this proposed development is that the houses will be isolated from Banbury - far too far for someone to walk into town and it is not on a bus route. It will neither be part of Banbury nor part of Hanwell. This is a lazy proposal. It is too easy to plonk houses on greenfield when 170 homes could be recreated in a more convenient site within Banbury where there is public transport. The newest existing homes on this side of Banbury are not being purchased as quickly as they once were - the market is slowing down. Therefore this new development is not needed. My parishioners include people who live in the village of Hanwell and the new housing estates that already exist. There is a clear, planned boundary between the two. Everyone is clear that the boundary was to stay and the land between both areas of housing would be enjoyed by everyone. This new development is not needed and seems to be a breach of trust.
