Comments	<input type="text" value="Having grown up in the village of Horley, I am disappointed to see a planning application for a green metal clad barn for the storage of animal feed in a field designated as pasture land. The field has only ever been used by a local farmer to graze a small number of cattle, therefore not requiring any storage facility. The meadow having recently been sold by auction should have clearly stated the uses available to the potential new owners. Should the meadow have been purchased without this knowledge or the intended use was outside those permitted the new owner should be advised accordingly. it well known that the field is a designated flood plain. This planning application should be refused"/>
