Comments	<input "="" 32992786="" https:="" pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov="" type="text" value="I work in Banbury and make the commute nearly daily. Not only would further warehouses be more of an eyesore, but it further restricts the mentalities of residents in an already restricted town. There are plenty of studies to show that enclosed space breed anxious minds. https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32992786/ There are also studies to show that warehouse workers suffer worse mental health and I believe CDC should be investing in improving this situation with more green spaces, infrastructure for children and teens, improved housing conditions and tighter regulations on landlord responsibility. Existing houses and places of employment and leisure should have a focus of improving insulation, windows and green spaces. Medical practises should be reinvested in, and business rents subsidised to allow the high streets to recover. All of this would improve the local economy without building a new warehouse. This country will become one of warehouses and we cannot allow that to happen. There is already one being built on the outskirts of Banbury, which has taken a very long time, is ugly, and disrupted a lot of people. I also believe that it will make people reconsider visiting the area, and decrease the number of people who rely on the high street. Thank you."/>
