Comments	<input type="text" value="The planners need to throw this application out again. It has already been stopped once and yet they keep coming. This area is already swamped with warehousing and offices that sit empty and blight the lovely countryside. There are plenty of sites that could be redeveloped that are old and tired and as they already exist in built up areas, will not cause problems. This area is already blighted by heavy traffic and HS2. I can no longer take the main road to take my children to school because the volume of traffic means I have to queue too long to get out of the M40 roundabout and they want to add more traffic and lorries. This just won't work! This development is too close to Overthorpe which currently is quiet and has beautiful countryside views. A development of this size could affect the Carrdus school business and cause it to close if parents don't like the new setting so close to industrial buildings. I and my children have grown up with the beautiful rolling ridge and furrow fields that have been grazed by cattle for years. Covering it in tarmac will destroy history that you can't get back. Issues with flooding will be even worse if you destroy farmland and hedgerows which currently soak up a lot of the rain. Not to mention the habitats of birds and animals. We have already lost too much countryside to HS2. If you build on that side of the M40, where does it end? Is the plan to join Chacombe to Banbury? I don't want to drive through an industrial site to get to my home. I think it is outrageous that they can keep applying for planning and hope that local people get tired of objecting so they can get on and do it anyway. There needs to be something in place that says that once it has been refused they can't apply again."/>
