Comments	<input type="text" value="I know that I am not living in Oxfordshire at the moment and some people might not think I should say in the matter. However, I am a Oxford lad who has lived there most of my life. My feeling are that the new stadium will not only be if it united. But in the long term the whole of area and the majority of people will learn to like it. People might say that we should stay at the Kassam, but he is running into the ground and has not done any improvements since it was completed. The ground now looks like it is 50, years old and not 20. Hopefully all planning requirements for the new ground can sorted and local people will see some of the benefits to them in the future. I am an Oxford supporter and have been so for a number of years and would love to see them in a higher league and competing with best, but the planning for the new ground most be done properly. Thank you for letting me have my say."/>
