Comments	<input type="text" value="As a big football fan, I visit the Kassam semi regularly and am always overwhelmed by the impact it has in our community, bringing people across the city together in a shared passion, forging community around a shared routine. Football clubs are vital as community institutions - both on and off the pitch - and this can be threatened in local areas when clubs come into trouble, which is often catalysed by not having somewhere permanent to play. Without the new stadium in Kidlington, Oxford United will be homeless by 2026 and could be existentially threatened - the new stadium is crucial."/>
