Comments	<input type="text" value="I have been an Oxford United supporter since I saw them win the milk cup in 1986. At the age of 84 I am still a season ticket holder. I receive a great deal of pleasure from attending matches, not only in supporting the team but also in the camaraderie amongst the fans, many of whom have become good friends. Whilst the game on the pitch gains the column inches in the press it is the community work and social benefits the club quietly and conscientiously provides which means so much to me and many others. I feel safe when I go and watch Oxford United games, something which is not necessarily the case in our town centres! The plans for the new stadium appeal to me as an even safer, modern self-contained environment. Travelling to the current ground is not easy whereas access to the new stadium will be so much better with great public transport facilities close by, making it easier for supporters to travel by train or bus and leave the car at home. Whilst there will always be people living close to any development who will want to resist it, in this case the benefits to the county of a world class, modern, green sporting facility, which we can be proud of, in my opinion outweigh these."/>
