Comments	<input type="text" value="Oxford united clearly need a new home. As the Council already know the current owner of the ground already has plans to build a housing estate on the land the dilapidated stadium sits on.
Oxford united means so much to so many as is clear to see on match day let alone attendances to Wembley the odd time they get there.
Oxford united have jumped through every hoop that has been thrown at them to make this as smooth as possible leaving no stone unturned and please the vast majority of people. From addressing parking on match day to having their architects bring in acoustic specialists to help with the design and keep as much noise within the stadium and much more. It makes me chuckle how the (Friends of Kidlington) aka nimbys haven't kicked up a fuss to stop the massive housing estate, Science labs, offices and car park being currently built just a stones throw away from oxfords proposed site. Which the vast majority of them don't even live in Kidlington.
Oxford united have laid out an extremely detailed plan of their long-term future and commitment to the stadium and its upkeep and also willing to build infrastructure to benefit the local Community, who are the heartbeat of the club itself."/>
