Comments	<input type="text" value="I was really shocked to read of the proposal to remove the provision of allotments from the planning application. As a resident of Sibford Ferris I would certainly have applied for an allotment on the site. I felt that in the original application the provision of allotments was a gesture to the residents of the village that was a small compensation for the disturbance and disruption to village life that the development has caused. I feel that in principal we should be encouraging as many people as possible to grow their own fruit and vegetables. This is especially important to families with young children. Many children grow up spending far too little time outside and have little understanding of where their food comes from. For the older generation having an allotment can be an excellent social activity and is good healthy exercise as well as providing a healthy food."/>
