Comments	<input type="text" value="We write to object strongly to the removal of the developer's commitment to providing allotments at this site, which as a community we fought so strongly to reject. To renege now on what was the only benefit of this development to the local community is immoral: presumably the original application included the provision of allotments to tick planning boxes and achieve planning consent. Enough! The developers can afford to provide this benefit to us as a small gesture of goodwill for over-developing our villages with over-priced properties that no one is buying, rather than using the land allocated for further building, which can be the only intention. While unsurprising that this developer has retrospectively applied to remove this benefit, we urge the Planning Team to robustly reject this condition in order to retain some semblance of rural resourcing for our community."/>
