Comments	I strongly object on the grounds of health and safety and access issues that we already have (with or without train station carpark traffic). The junction at peak times is dangerous, people drive on the wrong side of the road at pace to race to the junction risking head on collision with oncoming traffic. They do this because the lengthy single file traffic is backed up so severely down Higham Way and does not move. People fight with traffic from Merton Street with cars adjoining the junction from Higham Way and on a daily basis gets gridlocked and block junction of Royal Mail causing further carnage as traffic then gets gridlocked both ways. The cars that race down the outside on the wrong side of the road race towards junction to attempt to get in the right hand lane at the lights which is always more free than the left hand lane. This is a huge problem now. And will never be exacerbated. The building of further homes is going to place an intolerable amount of pressure on the road system. Furthermore noise is already an issue. The amount of cars racing past my property is unbearable at the best of times. This development of 200 further dwellings is going to put even more traffic on the road outside my property and will back cars all the way down as far as my property. There is already too much noise pollution with loud exhausts and traffic racing past my property.
