Comments	<input type="text" value="850 houses mean somewhere in the region of an additional 2000 cars. This area of Banbury, and in particular, the Longford Park Estate can't cope with the vehicles it already has, both parked, and travelling through the terrible narrow winding roads. If a large number of these new vehicles travel through the entry points earmarked into Longford Park, then it will become a living nightmare for existing residents, and kids and pets will simply not be safe. It will be used as a rat run to Bankside and this cannot be allowed. It will be too dangerous and add to already congested streets. The proposed alternative access onto the Oxford road is also at a blind summit and on a corner. Despite this site entrance supposedly going to have traffic lights, it will be incredibly unsafe and dangerous. Finally, its worth noting that on a daily basis, there is already terrible road congestion running all the way from the Longford park traffic lights to Adderbury. Further additional road users will make this untenable. This should not be approved in any form....."/>
