Comments	<input type="text" value="I oppose further development of Longford park without provision of services and amenities within the development will put significant strain on current local infrastructure and services. The provision of further overspill housing for Oxford and the wider area without the provision of necessary infrastructure enhancements is turning the area into a car biased commuter town. The current development has no facilities or amenities, other than the school, and as a result provides significant stresses in existing roads, shops, schools, doctors etc. both within Bodicote and wider into Banbury. The current development is not complete and adding to this with another 800 homes will make the current problems significantly worse. As a resident of Oxford Road I have seen a measurable increase in traffic and more worryingly traffic speeds over the past 5 years. Whilst a single controlled crossing has been provided this has done very little to improve safety and reduce speeds. Pedestrian and cycle facilities along Oxford Road from the Longford Park development towards Banbury are poor and therefore viable options for walking and cycling over the use of private cars are not evident. Planning conditions made upon the current development are not being imposed and the pressures of further development, namely the provision of the maximum number of residential units to the detriment of services, facilities and amenities is not sustainable."/>
